Dear colleagues and friends

On behalf of the German Society of Phlebology, we cordially invite you to our 63rd Annual conference in Aachen from 8th – 11th September 2021.

Like hardly any other branch of medicine, phlebology is shaped by interdisciplinary and interprofessional collaboration in research and health care.

Therefore, the coming annual conference is also under the motto „Synergy and Diversity“. In doing so, we draw on what has been tried and tested from past congresses and have also designed an attractive program for our guests and participants through scientific impulses from global experts.

In terms of content, the classic topics of phlebology with the diseases of the superficial and deep leg vein system, chronic wounds, lip and lymphedema and vascular malformations are dealt with.

In addition, venous research as well as aesthetics in phlebology should be given space in scientific sessions. Successful program items from the last congresses will be continued, such as the all-day ICWcertified wound management update, the crash course and the phlebology update, a large selection of hand-on courses, the training forum and the company symposia that are so important for technology transfer.

New this year are special workshops for the treatment of pathologies of the deep venous system, the DEGUM course in Sonography Skin, Subcutis and Lymph Nodes, all day on Saturday, and the advanced training path which enables not only „young phlebologists“ to participate in workshops and theoretical program items in a structured manner over the entire conference period in order to obtain a compact overview of the entire breadth of the subject.

The conference is embedded in a particularly attractive environment. Aachen as the westernmost German big city is excellently connected to the transportation infrastructure. It consists of its geographical location in the triborder region of the Euregion „in the heart of Europe“. This ensures close networking with our neighbouring countries with countless synergies on a scientific, social and cultural level.

Aachen is a place of diversity and looks back on a long tradition and history, shaped by the coexistence of historical and modern architecture that extends from the imperial era of Charlemagne to the present day of a successful technology location.

In this context we see an ideal framework for scientific transfer and intensive exchange between disciplines and professions to work together with you in one historical, culturally diverse and familiar ambience to catch up on the news in phlebology.

We are extremely pleased to see you in Aachen in September 2021.

Best regards,

Knuth Rass MD PhD & Houman Jalaie, MD PhD
